

ABOUT US

We are an engineering and technical services firm designed to be a single source for energy-related services. We were founded in 1973 to provide boiler control field services, and over the years, have continually expanded our service capabilities in response to the needs of our clients. As a proud employee-owned company with over 160 employees, we are honored to serve electric utility, industrial, and institutional clients.

At Sega, our success has always been a result of the people we hire.

Our employees have helped us to become one of the most respected power engineering firms in the country. They are valued for their unique contributions and impressive talent. As our industry grows, we plan to add more professionals to our team. In short, we are interested in you!

We don't offer jobs. We offer careers. As a professional, we know you have specific goals for your career path, and we'll give you the support you need to accomplish those goals. After all, an investment in our people is an investment in our future.
